
⁷It should be noted, however, that these are conservative estimates since the deflators used are based on the prices of consumer good items. This also means that the effect of the peso devaluation is not fully reflected.